The fighting in France has reached the vicinity of Miserey.

Mr. Hughes and Miss Wilson were married at Mitchellville, Tenn., last week.

The widow of John C. C. Mayo turned over half of her late husband's vast estate to her two children, when she married Dr. S. P. Fetter, of Portsmouth, O.

Monday's report says 26 German and 24 allied air ships were brought down on the French front. Lieut.
 Guynemer, a young Frenchman, destroyed two, making 18 he has brought down.

A young bride of seven months at Evansville has sued her husband for divorce alleging among other things that he refused to eat the meals she prepared for him. Girls, the moral of this is that domestic science is more important than china painting.

Thos. R. Underwood, who has been with the Kentuckian for the last three summers, is rapidly winning his way in journalism, which is to be his profession when he gets out of the State University. He did splendid work on the Lexington Leader last year and this year he is University reporter for the Courier-Journal and has a newsy letter each week. It would be hard to find a brighter or more promising young man anywhere than this Hopkinsville boy.

The Mexican conference at New London, Conn., will have to be moved, as the hotel there closes Oct. 1.
 The net result of the three weeks' conference is that the Americans have added greatly to their store of information relative to Mexican affairs and that they have endeavored to convince the Mexican representatives that whatever the United States has done with regard to Mexico was not done because of a selfish motive.

The Mexicans are insistent that American troops should leave Mexico, but this will not be agreed to under present conditions, so little has been accomplished.

Harper Leech, a Clarksville boy who made good in Memphis journalism, has gone to Washington and his going is thus commented upon by the Commercial Appeal: "Mr. Harper Leech, who for several years was editor of the Memphis Press, has taken up the duties of his new appointment in Washington. Mr. Leech did work in Memphis that was of great value to this community. He was full of courage and energy and in the struggle for a better order of things Mr. Leech did a man's party every day in the week. The Commercial Appeal congratulates Mr. Leech on his deserved promotion and hopes that his days in the land will be long, happy and full of action."

Clyde, Ky.—Mrs. I. A. Decker: "I recommend Cardui, the woman's tonic, to any woman in need of a remedy. For five years, I was unable to do my own work. Half my time was spent in bed. At last I tried Cardui. Now I am well and happy, and can do my own work." Don't suffer from pain, headache, ba-keache, and other womanly misries, when your own druggist has on his shelf a remedy for such troubles—Cardui. Get a bottle for yourself.
 As a general tonic, for weak women, nothing has been found for 50 years that would take its place. Try it.
 It will help you.—Advertisement.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

CHIPMUNK'S ADVENTURE.

"Little Chippy Chippy had been the name given to Mrs. Chipmunk's youngest son," said Daddy. "He was a very fine son, and Mrs. Chipmunk was very, very proud of him. In the first place he was most beautifully marked and all the other Chipmunks from far and near came to see the fine markings on his little soft, furry body.
 And his tail was very bushy and full.
 Altogether he was a beautiful Chip-munk and it wasn't surprising in the slightest degree that Mrs. Chipmunk should be so proud of him.

But alas and alack! all the Chip-munk around told Chippy Chippy how wonderful he was. They not only told him he was beautiful, but they told him he was very wise and clever and smart. Now, he wasn't so very smart if the truth is to be told.

"Strangely enough he was not in the least bit conceited about his beauty, but the minute he was told he was clever and smart he whisked his tail about and made up his mind to have some wonderful adventures so he could prove to all the other Chip-munk that he was even cleverer than they thought.

"It was a fine sunny morning when Chippy Chippy started off on his first adventure. He thought he would take a trip so he could relate how the world looked to him. On and on he scampered and ran feeling ever so well on such a perfect day.

"He hadn't gone very far when he saw some Pear trees that looked quite nice, so he hurried to the orchard where they were. Up the first tree he scrambled, and then when he had taken some delicious bites of the juicy Pear from that tree, he jumped across to the next one, where the Pears looked even better.

"But down on the earth, from out of a nearby farmhouse came a Cat strolling along. In the Cat's eyes were hungry gleams as he caught sight of little Chippy Chippy.

"Yes," muttered the Cat to himself,
 "the Cook didn't give me a good break-

"Uh, Uh-r-r-r!" Shrieked the Chipmunk.

fast today. The milk was poor and the bacon was wretched—not crisp and nice the way I should have it.
 But never mind, I shall make up for it now. I have been thinking for a long time that my digestion wasn't good. It's eating the same things all the time. I must have a change of food—that's what I must have."

"And the Cat went quietly along.
 Soon he was under the Pear tree, and looked up. He was wondering whether to climb up the tree right away or to wait a little while—if he waited the Chipmunk would taste even better—but still he was hungry now! For the Cat was thinking of poor little Chippy Chippy as his new breakfast.

"Chippy Chippy saw the Cat below the trees, but it was the first time he had ever seen a Cat. You see, he had never been out without his family, and he had only been in the world such a very, very short time that he didn't know that there were many dangerous things he must not have anything to do with. He expected the Cat to admire him, for, of course, he was used to nothing else but praise.

"Well," he said in a very friendly way, "I don't know who you are or what you are, but I'd like to be friends and have you tell me how beautiful and smart I am."

"The Cat grinned—a big, broad grin.
 He simply had never had such a funny thing happen in all his life. "You're beautiful, but you don't know a thing —not a thing—not even a Cat—you should have known me without being told—most of your family do. You're very, very stupid." But then the Cat said, "Me-ow," for the Chipmunk did look very delicious! And up the tree he went, caught hold of the Chip-munk's bushy tail and dragged him down to the earth.

"Uh—Uh-r-r-r!" shrieked the Chip-munk. And just then a Fairy happened near.

"Oh, King Thunder!" the Fairy shouted. "Come, come quick!" And a sudden crash of Thunder came so suddenly that the Cat dropped Chippy Chippy. Another clap of Thunder came and then a flash of Lightning and a terrible storm arose.

"Hurry away, Chippy Chippy," said the Fairy, and off he scampered to his home. His family nursed his poor, hurt tail, but they told him never again to forget that beauty and wisdom were the same, for he still had lots, lots to learn before he'd be wise."

NEWSPAPERS

FACE FAMINE

Steps Taken by Publishers to Meet Rising War Prices.

The Salem (Mass.) Evening News has gone to the limit of reducing the size of its paper by eliminating dashes in special departments and reducing the point size of all sub-heads. This is in addition to cutting down the number of pages.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the St. Louis Times on September 1 placed their daily issues on a nonreturnable basis.

FEWER PAGES IN MINNESOTA.

Minnesota publishers have taken radical steps to reduce consumption.
 Nearly every paper in the state is getting out fewer pages—ten or twelve page sheets have come down to eight —eight pages to six and four, and so on all along the line. The reduction in the size of the big Sunday papers amount to from ten to twenty pages.

W. R. Wiley, secretary of the John Leslie Paper company, Minneapolis, states that "Heretofore during the period before the war and almost up to the present time the price of print paper has been about $800 for 36,000 pounds. Today in round figures the cost is about $1,900 for the same quality, and our mills will not tell us that highest point has been reached. The normal price of print paper has been $2.10 a hundred. Today it is quoted at $5, figuring 35,000 pounds to the carload, the actual cost today in excess of the normal cost of a car would be approximately $1,050."

Stop The First Cold.

A cold does not get well itself.
 The process of wearing out a cold wears you out, and your cough becomes serious if neglected. Hacking coughs drain the energy and sap the vitality. For 47 years the happy combination of soothing antiseptic balsams in Dr. King's New Discovery has healed coughs and relieved congestion. Young and old can testify to the effectiveness of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs and colds. Buy a bottle to-
